Nothing is a waste of time
if you use the experience wisely. Rodin

The Sixteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time.

Usually we, like the apostles, are busy doing good things, necessary things, even doing the work God has asked us to do. But despite our good work, Jesus still wants us to take some time off to rest. In fact, he suggests in today's gospel reading that he and the apostles go to a quiet spot, getting away from people and demands. To take time to rest is good for us not only physically and emotionally but also spiritually because we are reminded that we are not indispensable. Taking some time off from our work requires humility.
