The problem with making assumptions is that we believe they are the truth.
Don Miguel Ruiz

Twenty-eight Sunday in Ordinary Time

Are we the one, or one of the nine? When Jesus entered the village, ten lepers met him, called out, and asked for pity. Surely all ten held out some level of hope that Jesus could help them, otherwise why would they call out after him? We cannot know what they really knew about Jesus and his ministry, but they call him "Jesus, Master."

Perhaps the lepers had already heard about his power to heal and hoped that healing would be theirs as well. Jesus commands them to show themselves to the priests and they are healed, but only one comes back, bows down, and thanks Jesus.

We all come to Jesus to ask for pity, for healing of one kind or another. We call Jesus by name. We have heard about his power to heal, and believe he will help us; otherwise, why would we call out to him? When we ask, we are healed. But in our humanity we still sin; we are still broken and return time and time again to ask for his healing compassion. Each time we ask, we receive, but how many of us return to bow down and thank the Lord for his mercy?

The National day of Prayer for Children takes place this coming Friday, the 14th October. Organised by the Society for Missionary Children, the occasion gives children a good opportunity to think of those children who are less fortunate, to pray for those less fortunate and to share with those less fortunate. Children love to know that they are important members of a global circle of praying, sharing and caring, in this, the Mission Month of October. They have generous hearts, missionary hearts, and so are open to the idea of including other little children in their thoughts. The National Day of Prayer is now in its ninth year.
